

Telephone Support for Bereaved HGS Staff

Facing the Future

Cruse Bereavement Care can provide confidential guidance and support through our service of compassionate telephone support calls, where you can discuss with a trained support worker how you are feeling. This “listening ear” may help you to manage the complex range of emotions that grief can cause.

There is no ‘right’ way to grieve.
Each one of us will react differently to a personal bereavement.

To access this discrete, and confidential service please
